WELCOME

Welcome to the Southern California Sports Broadcasters 16th Annual Awards Luncheon at which we recognize the Best Sports Broadcasting of 2006 and also honor others who have gone above and beyond in helping to improve sports broadcasting, in particular, and the area of sports in general.

And speaking of improvement, in 2006 the UCLA's Bruins made it all the way to the Final of the NCAA Basketball Tournament, the Clippers showed they could compete in the NBA playoffs and the Mighty Ducks did the same in the NHL postseason, reaching the Western Conference Finals. Also last year, UCLA thought their bowl game was really against USC instead of Florida State, the Dodgers sold more than 3.6 million tickets, and Hall of Fame Kings announcer Bob Miller got a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. (See Page 47.)

Changes on the local media sports scene in 2006 included Randy Harvey taking over as sports editor of the Los Angeles Times, succeeding Bill Dwyre who is now a columnist for the section; Fred Roggin joining T. J. Simers and his daughter, Tracy, on their morning sports talk program; the Ducks dropping "Mighty" from the team name, and the loss of several prominent and familiar people from the sports world. (See Page 49.)

What changes can we look forward to in 2007? Can the USC Trojans make another run for a national championship? Can the Dodgers draw four million fans? Will the Angels return to the playoffs? Can the "un-Mighty" Ducks win the Stanley Cup? Will the Los Angeles Times be sold to a local owner who will bring the Los Alamitos race entries and results back into the paper—not to mention the daily fish report? Will David Beckham earn his posh salary and lead the Galaxy to a MLS title?

Most of the above questions cannot be answered until the games are played. And when they are, there is a very good chance that someone in this room will be broadcasting them into your living room.

As we celebrate excellence in our profession today, I ask you to take a moment to look at the story of our association's origins (on Page 33) and, if you are not a current SCSB member, consider joining your colleagues in continuing to carry on the noble goals of those founding members. A membership application is included in your program.

I would like to thank the SCSB's Jerry Clark and Jim Gillis for their hard work in putting out another quality program, and all the advertisers who made it possible.

Congratulations to all the winners today and to special honorees Peter O'Malley, Luc Robitaille, Rick Monday, Tim Mead, Bill Bennett and Bill Redell.

And to all of you who have joined us today, thank you for your attendance and participation.

Long before cable television, long before Super Fan, and even before Howard Cosell, there was a Southern California Sports Broadcasters Association.

It came along about the time Walter O'Malley brought the Dodgers to town and Vin Scully began telling us amazing things about the refugees from a far off borough called Brooklyn. Los Angeles was a good media town in those days. We had five newspapers, seven television stations and about 50 AM radio outlets.

There were talented sportscasters on TV and radio, especially radio. The star sports personalities all had five to 15-minute shows all over the dial, with KMPC's Bob Kelley burning up the ratings and conducting a lively show-biz feud with KLAC's Sam Balter.

Competition was intense to get the big story, the exclusive, the best interview. It seemed, however, that the print media was being unjustly favored and Tom Harmon, the All-American from Michigan, was using his KNX sports pulpit to complain about it.

Harmon was becoming weary of standing in the back of the dressing rooms, tape recorder in hand, waiting for the newspaper guys to complete their interviews. Harmon, along with other prominent sportscasters and commentators, agreed that an association was needed to fortify the image of the electronic media and he asked for the support of the Dodgers and Rams. It worked.

On June 6, 1958, meeting in Bob Cobb's Hollywood Brown Derby, the town's sportscasters and their writers and producers became charter members of the Southern California Sports Broadcasters Association. Harmon was elected president, Charlie Clifton became vice president, Bob Kelley secretary, and Bill Brundige, treasurer.

The SCSBA moved ahead. Harmon, with Dodger help, forced baseball to open its World Series and All-Star dressing rooms to the electronic media. The Rams and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle quickly responded to the SCSBA's requests and, during the week of Super Bowl I, the NFL's "press" conferences were finally opened to sportscasters.

Through the years, the SCSBA (now the SCSB) has been active in charity golf tournaments raising money for college athletes planning to attend graduate school, plus a landmark forum, hosted by Bill Welsh, in which research proved to advertisers that sports on the air were a great buy for the advertising community. Now, due to the success of the annual awards luncheon, the SCSB has expanded its scholarship program (see Page 7).

Now in our 49th year, we're still going strong. The SCSB now offers "associate memberships" to people not directly involved with broadcasts, but whose professions and primary interests are closely associated with SCSB activities.

Our goal is to involve more on-the-air talent in our activities and meet with us at our special luncheons at Lakeside Golf Club in Toluca Lake where the camaraderie continues.

SCSB's HISTORY

Dear Southern California Sports Broadcasters Honorees,

On behalf of myself and everyone in the Seattle Mariners organization
I would like to congratulate you on your achievement.

Your work in and around the games we love have built a lifetime of memories for fans throughout Southern California.

Warmest Regards,

Bill Bavasi
General Manager
Seattle Mariners

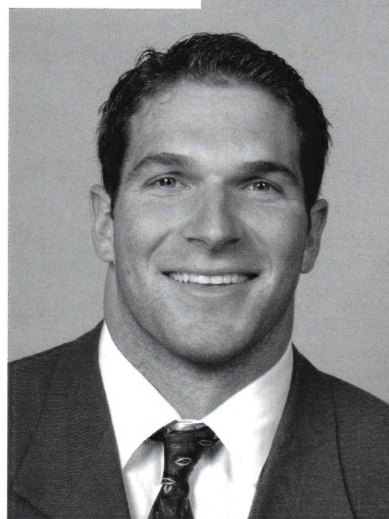

At the 2001 Awards luncheon, it was announced that the SCSB scholarship program would thereafter be known as the Tom Harmon Memorial Scholarship Awards in honor of the association's first president.

The program was initiated in 1962 when president Gil Stratton introduced a special golf tournament as a fundraiser to benefit the terminally ill Ram All-Pro, Gene Brito. The following year, president Fred Hessler, along with Gil, established an annual event to aid young people who were not pursuing a career in professional sports.

After 12 years of golf tournaments, and a hiatus, the SCSB renewed the scholarships utilizing money raised from awards luncheons to assist students in their advanced graduate studies.

Jerry Clark, Chairman of the Scholarship Awards, has worked closely with athletic and academic administrators at all local colleges and universities to compile a list of scholarship candidates. Last fall, a recipient was selected for the 2006 award:

BRANDON HANCOCK, University of Southern California: As an undergraduate, was a Communication major with a 3.91 grade point average. Currently doing post-graduate work at USC, seeking a Master's Degree in Communication Management. Member of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honor society. As a fullback at Clovis West High School in Fresno, he ran for 1280 yards and scored 15 touchdowns in his senior year, a performance that brought him 2001 Super Prep All-America honors. Brandon started two games for USC in his freshman season (2002) and, after missing the first three games of the 2003 season due to injury, he was the starting fullback for the remaining games. After undergoing off-season surgery, Brandon redshirted the 2004 season. In 2005, he played in all 13 games for the National Champion Trojans and received USC's Howard Jones/Football Alumni Club Award. Brandon suffered a pre-season knee injury and missed the entire 2006 season. He has applied to the NCAA for an additional year of eligibility because he missed the 2004 and 2006 seasons due to injuries.

JOHN CAPONERA

John Caponera always knew he wanted to be in show business, but in what dimension was undetermined until the summer of 1979 when he entered a talent show at a local bar in his hometown of Chicago.

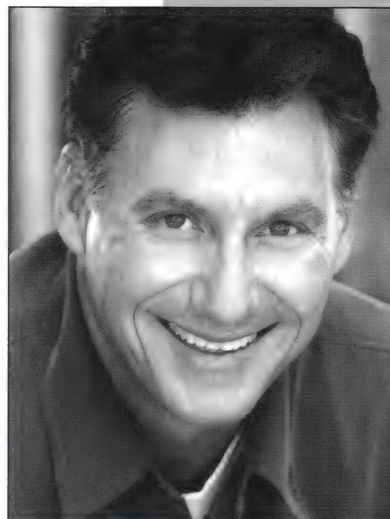

After doing several impressions, he walked away with the $500 winner's pot and a realization he might have something to offer in the world of comedy.

He worked the Chicago Comedy Club circuit for two years and then took his act on the road where he was immediately accepted. He has performed to audiences all over the world in person and on television.

He starred in his own 1994 comedy series on NBC-TV, "The Good Life," hosted Comedy Central's sports show, "Jocks," and ESPN's "Talk II," and made guest-starring appearances in a wide variety of shows, ranging from "The Tonight Show" to "ER" and from "L.A. Law" to "The Drew Carey Show."

Living in Los Angeles since 1986, when he is not working on TV, on the road or entertaining on a cruise, he is featured at the city's most prominent comedy showcases—the Improv, the Comedy Club and the Laugh Factory.

PETER O'MALLEY

Peter O'Malley will be remembered by many for his achievements as President of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

His leadership of the ballclub from 1970-98 was noted as much for how the organization was run as for the club's success on the field: five World Series appearances, with World Championships in 1981 and 1988.

During O'Malley's reign, Dodger Stadium was recognized for its beauty, family friendly ticket prices, "Dodger Dogs" and a clean, safe environment for fans. The Dodgers, who were the first team to draw three million fans in 1978, established a major league home attendance record of 3,608,881 fans through the turnstiles in 1982. Numerous community outreach programs were established during O'Malley's tenure.

Stability and success were hallmarks of O'Malley's management. Part of the success could be attributed to his bringing foreign players to the Dodgers. He made history with the signings of Fernando Valenzuela from Mexico, Chan Ho Park from South Korea and Hideo Nomo from Japan.

In 1997, Fortune magazine named the Dodgers one of the "100 Best Companies to Work for in America" for the third time. And in 1999, Street & Smith named the Dodgers "Sports Franchise of the Century."

But O'Malley's other achievements are just as noteworthy.

He played a significant role in the International Olympic Committee's decision to recognize baseball as an official gold medal sport by hosting the sold-out 1984 exhibition tournament at Dodger Stadium.

In 1990, O'Malley introduced baseball's first Korean-language broadcasts. On May 19, 1993, the Dodgers hosted baseball's first Chinese (Mandarin) broadcast and made history that day with a four-language broadcast, including English, Spanish and Korean.

He continues to enthusiastically support, and is integrally involved in, the worldwide growth of baseball. O'Malley has privately built youth and adult baseball fields in China, the Dominican Republic, Ireland and Nicaragua. He also created "Campo Las Palmas," a model state-of-the-art baseball academy in the Dominican Republic, which opened in 1987.

Over the years, O'Malley developed friendly relations with Japan, Korea, China, Taiwan, Russia, Mexico, Australia, Ireland, Holland, Italy, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Puerto Rico, Canada and Cuba by playing exhibition games, exchanging coaches and instructors, and inviting teams and individuals to train at Dodgertown in Vero Beach, Florida.

In 2003, O'Malley established the not-for-profit biographical website walteromalley.com to share his father Walter's extraordinary life story and career.

It is a privilege for the Southern California Sports Broadcasters to honor Peter O'Malley with a Special Achievement Award today. For the many people he has helped throughout the world, his achievements are very special.

SPECIAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES (AND ALL THE HIGHLIGHTS)

WE WERE THE LUCKY ONES.

Congratulations Luc on your tremendous career achievements and this great honor from the Southern California Sports
Broadcasters Association.

LUC ROBITAILLE

Luc Robitaille, who retired from the Los Angeles Kings after last season and will continue with the club in other capacities, is the 2007 recipient of the Southern California Sports Broadcasters' Lifetime Achievement Award.

And what a lifetime of achievement it has been for the National Hockey League's all-time left wing scoring leader. In 19 NHL seasons, 14 with the Kings, Robitaille had 1,394 points, including 668 goals—also a record for left wingers—in 1,431 games. In 159 playoff games, he had 127 points, including 58 goals.

It was apparent in Robitaille's rookie season (1986-87) that he could play in the NHL. He won the Calder Cup trophy as the NHL's Rookie of the Year (the only King to ever win that award) and was selected to the NHL All-Rookie Team.

Joined by the legendary Wayne Gretzky prior to the 1988-89 season, Robitaille and Gretzky helped lead a potent Kings offense which later took the team to the 1993 Stanley Cup Finals. That season Robitaille was named the team's captain and he responded by scoring the most goals (63) and points (125) by a left winger in NHL history. Both marks still stand.

Robitaille retired 10th in overall NHL goal scoring (668) and 19th in overall NHL scoring (1,394). He is the only left wing in NHL history to record eight consecutive 40-goal seasons (all with the Kings).

With the Kings, Robitaille ranks second all-time in games played (1077), second in points (1,154) and fourth in assists (597). On January 19, 2006, he scored his 551st goal as a King to surpass his former teammate, longtime friend and Hall of Famer Marcel Dionne.

For five seasons of his storied 19-year career, Robitaille played with other NHL teams: the Pittsburgh Penguins, the New York Rangers and the Detroit Red Wings, with whom he won the 2002 Stanley Cup.

Kings' Hall of Fame announcer Bob Miller says: "There has never been another Kings player that had such rapport with Kings fans as Luc Robitaille. He was always available and friendly and able to talk with the fans—and he seemed to enjoy it as much as they did. He had three different stints with the Kings, and although he had also skated for other teams, he always considered the Kings his team."

And the Kings will remain his team. It was announced late in 2006 that Luc will work with the team and AEG in community relations and in the development of arenas in Kansas City and Ontario.

Said Robitaille of the transition in his career: "The game of hockey has been extremely good to me and my family, and I have always considered the Kings to be my second family. Therefore, this new role is an ideal situation. I have always had tremendous interest in the business of hockey and in staying active in this great sport. Even though I'm not on the ice anymore, my goal remains the same—to bring the Cup to Los Angeles."

It's obvious that Luc Robitaille's lifetime of achievement is far from finished.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Rick Monday celebrates his dramatic ninth-inning home run off Montreal's Steve Rogers in Game 5 of the NLCS to propel the Dodgers into the 1981 World Series.

All of your friends at walteromalley.com salute your outstanding career as a player, humanitarian and broadcaster.

best wishes!

RICK MONDAY

Rick Monday's dash from his position as a Chicago Cubs outfielder to save the American Flag from being set afire by two protesters at Dodger Stadium endeared him to Americans—baseball fans or not—during this country's bicentennial year of 1976.

Eleven years earlier I saw him perform another memorable act. On a cold, damp night he hit an early-inning home run far over the right-field fence at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha, Nebraska to lead his Arizona State team to a win over Ohio State for the 1965 College World Series championship. Shortly thereafter, the Kansas City A's chose Monday, the College Player of the Year, as the first selection in the Major League First-Year Player Draft.

Later, after being traded to the Dodgers, other heroics—including hitting the game-winning homer in the ninth inning of Game Five of the 1981 National League Championship Series, which sent the Dodgers to the World Series—became part of the Monday lore.

For these and a myriad of other accomplishments, Rick Monday has been selected as this year's recipient of the Southern California Sports Broadcasters' Chuck Benedict Founders Award. The late Chuck Benedict was a founding member of the organization and a two-time SCSB president.

Monday is now in his 14th full year as a Dodger broadcaster and his 22nd season with the Dodgers overall. In his current role, he serves as an analyst for all Dodger home games and the team's road games against the National League West. In all other road games, he serves as the play-by-play announcer alongside former teammate Jerry Reuss. For every game throughout the season, Monday is a co-host on the Dodgers' radio pre-game show, "Inside the Dodger Dugout."

Through the years, Monday has garnered many awards—for his baseball talents, his broadcasting career and his humanitarian efforts.

During his baseball career, he was a member of the 1966 American League Rookie All-Star Team with the A's, the 1968 A.L. All-Star Team with the A's, and the 1978 N.L. All-Star Team with the Dodgers. He appeared in five League Championship Series and played in three World Series, including 1981 when he was a member of the Dodgers' World Championship team.

In 2005, USA Today ranked the Dodgers' radio broadcast team, featuring Vin Scully, Monday and Charley Steiner, as Major League Baseball's best.

In 1977, Monday received the inaugural Humanitarian Award presented by Major League Baseball. In 1995, he was honored with the William A. Shea Distinguished Little League Graduate Award, which is given to a Major League Baseball player or individual who best exemplifies the spirit of the Little League Baseball program.

Among his many other honors are "Patriotism" awards from the Boy Scouts of America, the American Legion, the Fraternal Order of Police, and the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

And for his Flag-saving feat in 1976, President Gerald R. Ford presented Monday with a Presidential Commendation.

And what happened to that Flag? After it was used as evidence in the case against the two protesters, it was presented to Monday by the Dodgers.

As you can see, Rick Monday is a man of many accomplishments—and a very worthy recipient of the SCSB's Chuck Benedict Founders Award.

TIM MEAD

A few years ago, Southern California Sports Broadcasters President Stu Nahan was reminiscing with Tim Mead at an Angels game. Mead, Vice President, Communications for the ballclub, happened to mention that he was born in Greece.

Stu, taken aback by the fact, said: "Tim, I've known you for 20 years and you never told me that—why were you born in Greece?"

"Because that's where my mother was," Tim replied.

Consternation is the only word that can describe the look on Stu's face, as others in the group broke up with laughter.

As it turned out, Greece's loss was the Angels'—and Sportscasters'—gain. For his assistance to the SCSB over the years, Tim Mead today receives the association's "High Five" award.

Mead is in his 28th season with the Angels organization, including the last 10 years as V.P. of Communications. Fresh out of Cal Poly Pomona with a Bachelor of Science degree in Communications, he began his Angel career as an intern in the public relations department in 1980. Mead was appointed Director of Media Relations in 1985 and was promoted to Vice President of Media Relations in 1993. From 1993-97, he served as Asst. General Manager of the ballclub.

Under his supervision, Mead has been responsible for the handling of media during the 1986 and 2004 Angels post-season appearances, the 1989 All-Star Game and the Angels' memorable World Series run in 2002. He has also assisted in several All-Star Games, League Championship Series and World Series.

Away from the field, Mead took part in the 2002 Joint Civilian Orientation Conference designed by the Department of Defense. He was one of 60 civilians chosen by the Pentagon to attend the conference. He traveled on a trip to the Pentagon and numerous military installations where he met with key military generals, admirals and enlisted personnel from each branch of the service. The trip was designed to give a clearer picture and understanding of the military to civic and community leaders across the country.

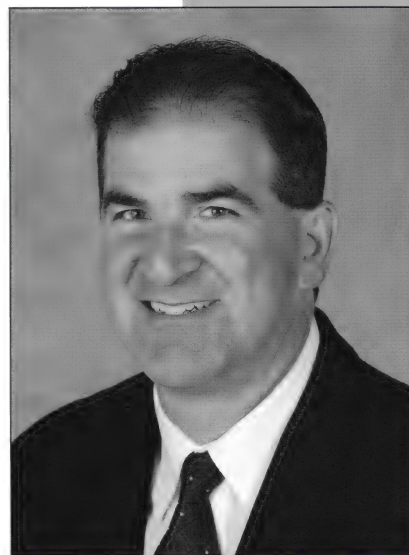

Mead is a member of the Board of Directors for the Orange County Sports Youth Assn. and other charitable groups such as Amigos de los Ninos and Second Harvest Food Bank of Orange County. He also serves on the advisory committee for the Sports Management Program at Cal State University Long Beach.

In 2000, Mead was the recipient of the Robert O. Fishel Award for P.R. Excellence, an honor named after the longtime baseball executive who was known for his "ethics, character, dedication, service, professionalism and humanitarianism."

That describes the SCSB's 2007 "High Five" recipient perfectly.

Congratulations, Tim.

BILL BENNETT

If you would like to send a birthday greeting to Bill Bennett, recipient of the 2007 "Good Guy" Award of the Southern California Sports Broadcasters, don't bother marking the date on your calendar—just wait for a broadcaster to mention that Oct. 14 will be coach John Wooden's 97th birthday.

For William H. Bennett II—or just plain Bill to us—shares the same birth date as the famed UCLA basketball coach, who first befriended Bill during Bennett's 20-plus years working in the UCLA Athletic Department.

The "Good Guy" Award is presented annually to a person who has been of invaluable assistance to the SCSB organization in the pursuance of its goals in aiding the Southern California broadcast community.

Bill was a popular choice for the award through his duties as Associate Sports Information Director at UCLA from 1984-2006, a position in which he was responsible for strategic media promotion, planning and organizing the Bruins' men's basketball and men's and women's track and field programs.

In mid-2006, Bennett was named assistant director of the Wooden Fund, working with UCLA Olympic Sports, head coaches and each sport's fundraising organization.

Bill, a native of Charlotte, N.C., moved frequently while growing up as his father, an insurance executive, would relocate the family whenever he was promoted and reassigned. Young Bill resided in Charlotte, Reading, Pa., and Chicago before finally settling in Lincoln, Neb., when he was a sophomore in high school.

He was a tennis letterman in high school and continued that skill at the University of Nebraska where, when he wasn't smashing balls on the tennis court, he was writing smashing copy as sports editor of the Daily Nebraskan.

And if those activities weren't enough to keep him busy, Bennett also worked as a student assistant to the Sports Information Director at the university, where he was tutored by one of the giants of the SID profession, Don Bryant.

After earning his Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism, Bill stayed on at the university, working full time with Bryant as Asst. Media Relations Director.

From Lincoln, his career path took him to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas where he coordinated all media relations for the athletic department during the height of the era of Jerry Tarkanian's "Runnin' Rebels" nationally-ranked men's basketball teams.

Before coming to UCLA, Bill spent time as a sports reporter for the Lincoln Journal-Star at the same time that he worked as media relations director for Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Bill is a member of the Collegiate Sports Information Directors of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Assn. and the Football Writers Assn. of America.

So when you hear a member of the Southern California Broadcasters mention John Wooden's birthday this fall, think of Bill Bennett too.

They're both "Good Guys"—and Bill has a trophy to prove it.

Oaks Christian School
salutes
Coach Bill Redell on receiving the Special Award from the Southern California Sports Broadcasters.

Thank you for your COMMITMENT
DEDICATION
MENTORING
of our young men and women at Oaks Christian School.

Congratulations!

BILL REDELL

Bill Redell has had success at every level of his football career—as a prep in the San Gabriel Valley, as an All-American at Occidental College and as an All-Pro in the Canadian Football League. So it was no surprise when as head football coach he took Oaks Christian High School to the California State Div. III Football Championship last fall.

And for that accomplishment, Bill Redell today is receiving a Special Award from the Southern California Sports Broadcasters.

Bill is no stranger to coaching high school champions, having won a previous CIF title at Crespi in 1986 and four consecutive CIF titles at Oaks Christian. The 2006 team finished 15-0 and has a current 46 game winning streak, tying the CIF Southern Section record for consecutive wins held by Canyon and Temple City high schools.

Coach Redell has coached three Shrine Games and has distinguished himself as the only participant to have both played in and coached a Shrine Game. As a high school coach, he has placed 68 players in Div. 1 College programs. Known for assembling great coaching staffs, he has helped to develop 15 assistant coaches who have gone on to head their own football programs.

Redell's list of honors is long and illustrious. As an all-around athlete at San Marino High School he was outstanding, being selected to the San Gabriel Valley All-Century Football Team and named "Player of the Decade" for the 1950s.

He was selected to the NAIA All-America Team while playing for Occidental in 1963, and in 2001 was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame. During his six-year pro career in the Canadian Football League, he played in the Grey Cup, the CFL's championship game.

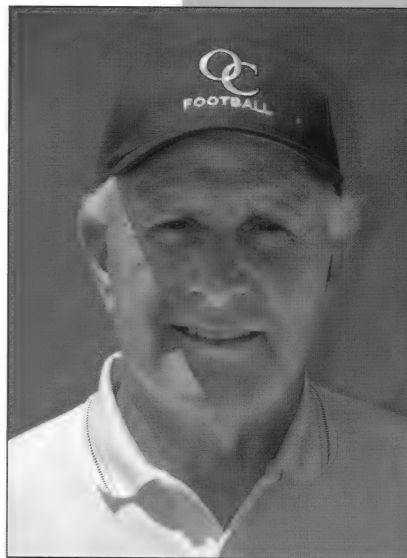

As a high school football coach, Redell's teams have compiled a collective record of 172 wins, 56 losses and three ties. At Oaks Christian, his varsity coaching record is 76-5-1.

For his 1986 CIF championship at Crespi and his 2006 State title with Oaks Christian, Bill was twice named National High School Coach of the Year.

In Bill Redell, the SCSB picked a real winner when selecting this year's recipient of its Special Award.

ORNEST FAMILY FOUNDATION

“You can’t bring cameras and microphones into the dressing room. This is for the press. When the writers are finished, you may come in and talk to the players, if they are willing.”

Prior to 1958, the only radio and TV equipment allowed in most press boxes was for play-by-play.

That was understandable. For generations, the writers had enjoyed an exclusive relationship with sports. They were established squatters, with no thought of sharing those rights.

Enter the Southern California Sports Broadcasters Association, with its own mandate to create an open door policy. The key man was an energetic, determined former star Michigan running back and Heisman Trophy winner, Tom Harmon. By then a broadcaster, he picked up the ball and carried it through the press box and dressing room, smiling at the tacit opposition, who realized that the ex-Wolverine ball carrier had momentum...and a point.

Harmon, who had been shut out of a 1957 post-game World Series dressing room, spent subsequent months formulating plans for an organization of radio and TV men who would show the sports magnates and their reps that land lines, wall plugs and batteries signified a tremendous influence on the box office.

The Dodgers came to Los Angeles to start the 1958 season, and some of the less visionary among them thought they would have to show the boots and saddles folk the difference between an infield fly and an on-deck circle.

Harmon, as sports director of L.A.’s CBS-KNX, reassured the Dodgers that the land of Harmon, Bob Kelley, Sam Balter, Gil Stratton, Bill Brundige, Fred Hessler, Bill Welsh, Allin Slate and company (and Bill Schroeder, Tom Hanlon, Hal Berger and Charlie Clifton before them) already was a well-informed baseball constituency.

Harmon said, “We’ve already done a lot to create the big attendance you will draw at the Coliseum. Also, we’re about to form an association of sports broadcasters, Want to help us?”

Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi nodded. The Rams pledged support. USC and UCLA joined the fun and the L.A. sports world was alerted. Early in the season, the SCSB was organized.

With Harmon as president, the SCSB held its charter luncheon meeting June 6, 1958, at the American Room of the Vine Street Brown Derby. After a business meeting, the “charter” program was in the hands of Bavasi and the Dodgers’ Red Patterson, with Fresco Thompson and Lee Scott also on the dais.

The visiting Milwaukee Braves had contributed top pitchers Warren Spahn, winner of a 1957 World Series game against the Yanks, and hero Lew Burdette, who had won the other three.

In the question session that followed, KNX’s Jim Raser asked Burdette if it were true that he threw illegal spitballs. There was hilarity in the responses, but, of course, no admission by Burdette. Raser then followed by asking, “If you were to throw a spitter, what would you use?”

Burdette merely smiled. Spahn spoke up, pointed at Burdette and loudly proclaimed, “Two wet fingers and a dry thumb.” The 35 charter members howled.

The SCSB had shown that it was an organization of influence, and that it would be a haven for off-the-field fun and information.

As in the final scene of “Casablanca,” the electronic media and the sports community walked out of the Brown Derby together and moved to a 9-year stay at the famed Scandia Restaurant.

It was the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

A longtime resident of Woodland Hills, Ken and his wife of 50 years, Marlene, have four grown children and eight grandchildren.

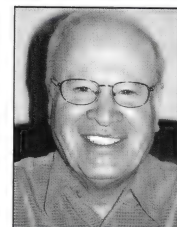

ROGER NADEL: A veteran of more than 20 years in Los Angeles radio, Nadel has spent much of his career involved with news and sports programming. Most-recently Vice President/General Manager of Sporting News Radio's KMPC 1540 "The Ticket." Nadel began as a Desk Assistant at KNX Newsradio, working his way up to Newswriter and Editor before becoming Executive Producer, a post he held for 7 years. In 1989, he transferred with CBS Radio to WWJ/WYST in Detroit, initially as Program Director before becoming VP/General Manager. In 1996, he was transferred back to L.A. for a seven year stint as VP/GM for KFWB. Over the past two decades, Nadel has produced radio sports programming for college football programs including USC, Michigan and Notre Dame, and professional teams including the NFL Raiders, Lions and Chargers, the NBA Detroit Pistons, and was responsible for bringing Los Angeles Dodgers baseball to KFWB.

CHUCK PANAMA: Chuck entered sports broadcasting in the early 1950s as substitute for Bob Kelley when the SCSB Hall of Famer traveled with the Los Angeles Rams. Panama also was color commentator for UCLA football games when Roy Storey did the play-by-play. He worked as Southern California Sports Editor of International News Service. Later was a public relations executive with 20th Century Fox Studios. Panama was statistician for Fred Hessler on UCLA football for 23 years, and spotter and/or stats man for numerous Rams, Raiders, Bruins and Trojan broadcasts and telecasts. He worked with Ray Scott on the first Super Bowl Game. A native of Chicago, Panama attended Northwestern and UCLA before joining INS. He and his wife of 52 years, Gerry have three children and seven grandchildren.

LINA ROMAY: One of the premier big band vocalists. Started out singing with Xavier Cugat's orchestra. Made over 65 feature films, including "Adventure" with Clark Gable, "Bathing Beauty," "Love Laughs at Andy Hardy," "Stage Door Canteen" and "You Were Never Lovelier." Extensive radio career guesting on shows such as Red Skelton, Kraft Music Hall, Bob Hope Comedy Hour and Bing Crosby on KABC for 39 weeks. Began sportscasting at KNX in 1980 and was heard doing race results nine times a day for 10 years. Director of Hollywood Park's radio department. Nostalgia Night host for Pacific Pioneer Broadcasters. Resides in Pasadena.

RAY ROSENBAUM: In Sports media for over 48 years. Hosted sports show on KIEV radio. Former assistant editor of Official Boxing Record, sports reporter for Beverly Hills Citizen, Valley Times and Hollywood Citizen News, and Editor of California Bowling News. Past President of Bowling Writers Assn. of America. Founder of P.R. firm: Headlines, Ink. Has handled publicity for local auto racing, World's Championship of Billiards, and Willie Mosconi. Was developer and promoter of the yearly "Beef Bowl" at Lawry's. Longtime Southland resident, now living in West Hills with wife, Rita.

MICHAEL ROTH: Vice President, Communications for Los Angeles-based AEG. Guides the development and implementation of the organization's overall corporate communications strategy and oversees public relations for many of the company's divisions and holdings including STAPLES Center, The Home Depot Center, AEG LIVE and L.A. Live, a sports & entertainment district, which opens in Fall 2007 adjacent to STAPLES Center. While serving as the primary media contact and spokesperson for the Company, Roth is also the organization's liaison to the entertainment industry. A proud graduate of U.C.L.A., he is a native of Sherman Oaks where he still resides.

BARBARA SPORTELLI: The Rose of Washington High, by way of Needles, Calif. The SCSB believes Barbara is the best secretary/treasurer in the business. Full-time, she works for the Southern California Tennis Assn. Barbara's sports career began with the Los Angeles Rams and continued on to the Far West Ski Assn., and then to the SCTA in 1974. Next to her work, Barbara's greatest love is music. She is an accomplished vocalist and often sings with the 28-piece band, The Californians. A longtime member of the Secretaries of Sports, Barbara resides in Valley Village with husband, Rocky, "the world's greatest sports fan."
